You are invited to attend Derek Van Ittersum’s Job Talk entitled, “Assembling Useful Software: Tracing writers’ appropriation of innovative writing technology.”

Description: This presentation uses data from my study of writers’ computer-mediated memory work to argue for creating a greater distinction between the categories of useful and usable software for writing. Such a distinction, I propose, can better facilitate the adoption of innovative writing tools.

What: LRSP Job Candidate, Digital Literacies Position
When: Thursday, 07 February 2008
Where: Moulton Hall, Room 317
Time: 10:00 am